King Victor Emanuel Pronounced "Out of Danger."

Premier Gladstone on British Reform, the Case of Ireland and Relations with America.

ENGLAND.

Municipal Banquet in London-Premier Glad-stone's Speech-The Case of Ireland-Her Evils and Their Cure-Friendly Relations and Peace with America.

LONDON, Nov. 9-Midnight. The inaugural banquet of the Lord Mayor of London took place to-night at Gulidhall. The members of the Ministry, the foreign ambassadors and a large and distinguished company were present. Mr. Gladstone replied to the tonst to her Majesty's Ministers. On rising he was loudly cheered. He returned thanks for the honor, and said the good feeling of the citizens towards the overnment wasan omen and indication of the com-government wasan omen and indication of the common sentiments pervading the land. He then continued thus:

Whatever the trimmphs may be, I do not undervalue them. Toey have not had, nor are they likely to have in our days or in our children's, the effect of ligutening the responsibilities of the government. As the standard of our laters and wants is raised so is raised and extended the demand on those in office. It is to endeavor to give such a shape to legislation and public policy as may correspond to that elevated standard. Every social exigency causes us to rely more on the intelligence of our countrymen to give heart and energy to our efforts and to pardon and lorgive our shortcomings. It is satisfactory to know that throughout the country one sentiment prevales in respect to the Queen, the law and the institutions and government. But do not let us seek a fool's consolation in binding ourselves to that. Crossible Channel, seek the island, long united to us in political and legislative bonds. How melancholy, in the face of this great assembly, to be compelled to comiss that that island, which we have governed for seven nundred years, over which we have exercised almost unbounded power, has not yet fulfilled the first condition of a civilized community; has not been brought into harmony with our laws and institutions. It is almost unnecessary to remind you that we were called to office in connection with this important crisis in the affairs of reland, a crisis in which the mind of the country was more soriously addressed than formerly towards making endeavors to put an end to what has been a problem and a speck on the fair fame of our country for so many generations. In Ireland we see society politically discased—we see a people of noble capacity and quick susceptibility, whose heart in many cases does not bear with a warm and lively attachment to her sister countries, and who do not in all respects yield to the authority of laws which we gladly recognize on this side of the Channel. This year has been marke with which we are united by so many costly ties every minister is bound to cultivate and should not venture to renounce. Happilly we are discouraged from prosecuting quarrels with the world in general—having none to prosecute. But the friendly assistance of England, though not obtruded, is always ready when sought for, and has had no small influence in allaying disturbances and composing differences which have and might have arisen in various parts of the world. His noble colleague, Lord Clarendon, since his return to the Foreign Office, had received liberal and handsome acknowledgments for his contributions towards the accommodation of such differences. One partial exception I ought to make, and it is an exception which is of the deepest interest to Englishmen—namely, our relations with America. But there is no occasion on which I could more appropriately refer to these relations or better describe them than as those of peace and concord. Were I to attempt to depart from that friendly strain I should be admonished to judge more correctly and to speak more wisely by an event which has happened within this city during the last few days. I refer to the death of George Peabody—a man whose splendid benefactions will recure immortality for his name in that which he regarded as his old mother country, but whose fame likewise, and in a broader sense, is applicable to all humanity. He has taught us the most needifful of all lessons—how a man can be master of his fortune and not its slave. And it is most touching to know what I have learned from his freede, that while some men would have been unhappy at the idea of dying in a foreign land, his airections were so divided between the is meet touching to know what I have learned from his freede, that while some men would have been unitappy at the idea of dying in a foreign land, his affections were so divided between the land of his birth and the land of his affections, were so divided between the land of his birth and the land of his affectives, that that which had been his fondest of wishes may now be realized, to be buried in America, but die in England, with Mr. Peabody's country we are not likely to quarrel. It is true that care and skill in diplomacy, animated though it has been by the purest and most upright feelings, although it has not imperilled our peace, has failed to lead to the first issue up to the present moment upon the tangled questions of law which have been in discussion between the two countries. Considerable delay has taken place, yet every delay, instead of leading to danger, was prompted by considerate good will and desire to allow the intervention of a limited time, in order to obviate the difficulties. (Cheers, I believe the world would view with horror a parricidal strue between England and America. But such a state of things is not likely to arise from our present relations, and my confidence is in the sentiments which I know animate the American govornment as well as our ewn, and which also animates the minds of the people of these two great countries. (Cheers, Another source of confusion is connected with the changes which as animates the minds of the people of these two great countries. (Cheers, Another source of confusion is connected with the changes which as animates the minds of the people of these two great countries. (Cheers, Another source of confusion is connected with the changes which as animates the minds of the people of these than that formerly set up, and it becomes necessary for our own interests that the conduct of the country not only conforms to our own ideas of the country not only conforms to our own ideas of the country not only conforms to our own ideas of the country of only conforms to o Another International Aquatic Contest.

Nation's Hope had arrived from Sydney.

The Tahtu Cotton Company about six months ago sent the bark Margaret Cander, Captain Blackett, to the Gibert Islands for a cargo of coolies. The captain succeeded in scouring about 500, and during the return voyage they mutnaed and killed the captain and two officers, horribly mutilating their bodies. The mate escaped to the held of the vessel. There he placed a keg of powder under the main hatch, and, having arranged a fuse, called the coolies, when the savages growded around the hatchway. The fuse was then fred, killing nearly all on board. The rest tumped overboard or fell victims to the mate and remaining men. The vessel was brought safely to Tahiti. the Gubert Islands for a cargo of coolies. The cap

The Latheran General Council. The General Council of the Lutheran Church assembled this morning. Rev. Mr. Leist presented a reply to the question asked by the Min-nesota Synod concerning the declaration of nesota Synod concerning the declaration of the general Coucil on the four points, whether it is the right interpretation of them that heretics and those that err in fundamental doctrines cannot be admitted to our commutiles or enter our pulpits as teachers of our congregations; and whether the principles enunciated at Pittsburg are meant to ap-ply to those indistinctive doctrines of the Lu-theran Church which are not in harmony with the pure doctrines of God's word taught and held by our Church. To both theran Church which are not in harmony with the pure doctrines of God's word taught and held by our Church. To both questions we answer "yea," the exceptional cases in the second instance being necessarily left to be dotermined on by a faithful pastor as they arise. Alter debate the questions were referred back to the member from Minnesota, with the request that he present them in a more lucid manner.

Hev. Dr. Passarant, of the Committee on Foreign Missions, reported that the principal difficulties that the missionary committed had met, was the want of means to support missionaries. The receipts last year were but $1,000. The second dimoulty was the inability to obtain labod for for the missionary fields. The missionary labors of the Pennsylvania, Pittsourg, New York. Canada, England, Ohio, Michigan, Illimois, Augusta, Virginia and lows synods deserved creditable mention. The amount expended by these bodies for domestic missions is between $15,000 and $20,000. It is proposed to plant missions in the West and South during the winter.

Hev. Mr. Scoffer, from the Committee on the Constitutions for Congregations and Synods, presented a long constitution, which was not read, but will be printed for distribution.

Bordentown, N. J., Nov. 9, 1869.
A tug from the Navy Yard at Philadelphia was despatched to Bordentown at one o'clock P. M., with twenty marines and eight seamen...i, e latter to act as pall bearers—under command of Captain T. G. Corbin, United States N'VY-Lieutenant Rowland, of the United States Na Yy. and Lieutenant Meade, of the Marine Corps, left th's receiving ship at one o'clock P. M., and grounded twice, at Torresdale and one mile from Bordentown. They arrived at Bordentown at quarter past six and They arrived as Bordentown as quarter past six and proceeded to the residence of Admiral Stewart, the route being illuminated the whole distance. A large concourse of people, including distinguished gentlemen from different States, members of the press and ottizens generally were present throughout the day and were much disappointed by the detention of the United States steamer. But a small number of persons were present when the vessel arrived. At five o'clook Dr. Cox, of Newton, L. I., read the runeral services of the Episcopal Church, assisted by Rev. N. Fettit, of Bordentowin. The Admiral was laid out in uniform suitable to his rank and presented a wonderfully lifelike appearance. The marines and seamen took the body in charge and marched in solemn procession, followed by a few citizens remaining, to the railroad station, where the mail train, by orders of Superintendent Van Rensalear, stopped and received the comin and those who were to accompany it to Philadeiphia, the party being afraid to venture in the tugboat on their roturn trip. The Common council of the city resolved this evening to attend the funeral in a body. To-morrow all piacos of business will be closed and all the church bells, recently from Parls, has shown every hospitality to the press.

SUDSON RIVER MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION.

POUGHEREFSIE, Nov. 9, 1889.
The Hudson River Ministerial Association, composed of preachers in the various towns on the Hudson river, assembled in this city last evening, at the Hedding Methodist Episcopal church, in South Clover street, on which occasion the opening sermon was delivered by Rev. Mr. Harrower, of Rhinebeck. This morning at half-past eight o'clock the associa tion convened in the Washington street Methodist Episcopal church, when a half hour was set reports of ministers were taken up. Information was given relative to the progress of Christianity in the towns of Saugerties, Uister county; Kingston, Fisakiii viliage, Rhinebeck and other places. The

Rev. Marvin Richardson, for sixty years a memnutual congratulations occurring.

Rev. Marvin Richardson, for sixty years a member of the New Jersey Conference, then addressed the Association, after which Rev. R. Wheatly read a paper on "Total Depravity," an essay of a purely doctrinal character. R was a sort of classical peroduction, and was listened to with marked attention and atterwards fully and ably discussed.

Rev. M. S. Terriy, of Peckskill, next read a paper on "Modern Spiritualism." He seemed to attack Spiritualism: He seemed to attack Spiritualism: He seemed to attack Spiritualism: He seemed to stack Spiritualism: A polished manner, and during the course of his readings also seemed to sympathize with clairvoyance. He was sure that spirit seeing was hallucination, and brought forward, by way of illustration, many ancient facts to support his statement, and was pleased to attact that the best spiritual mediums seemed to be young rills of a high nervous temperament. Spirit rappings and spirit communications were denounced as the result of imposture, delusion and fraud. In the discussion which followed the reading of the paper Rev. Mr. Hurrower, of Rhinebeck, approached the subject nervously. He apparently didn't, and yet he did believe some portions of the doctrine of Spiritualism. His whole manner of handling the subject was a sort of well, yes, ahem, and-not-exactly-but-still style. He sat down nervously, and well—that's all finat can be said.

Rev. Mr. Gibson, of Cold Spring, replicy and vigorously denounced the doctrine in every conceivable way, and said that money was at the bottom of the whole of it, as in the case of the Cardin giant, and he protested against it from beginning to end.

This afternoon the discussion was renewed for a haif an hour, when Rev. F. S. Barrum and Rev. S. J. McCucheon leading off.

To-night the association met at the Cannon street church, when Rev. E. Lewis, of Fishkill Landing, delivered an address on the sunday school work, and sky. Dr. J. T. Peck, of Albany, spoke upon the subject of temperance.

A STIFF-NECKED ADVERSARY.

A party by the name of Steer, Christian name not given, took it into his head yesterday to go on a frolic. Leaving his comfortable quarters in Manhattanville he sauntered out into 164th street in search of adventure. Finding nothing to employ his attention he struck for the Hudson River Kaliroad track and awaited his opportunity. Seeing the express train going up at full speed his eyes glared with wicked satisfaction. His caudal fan was suddenly elevated, his head depressed and he awaited the approach of the snorting enemy that came thundering on. A moment later there was a violent collision, a quiver or the muscles of a stirl neck, and the fellow that was spoiling for a fight went of to grass, while the engine kept heaving on it course. The police report that he had two legs broken and the train sustained no injury. tanville he sauntered out into 154th street in search
